One Hundred Thousand Dollars is Spurious Money Discovered in New York—Selzure of Counterfelt Bills on the Treasury of Haytt.

On Saturday last, says the New York Tribume, Detectives Van Wagoner and Rayhor, of the Brooklyn police, seized w large quantity of bills on the Treasury of the Republic of Hayti, and also arrested a man for disposing of them. It appears that Haytien money has been extensively counterfeited in the United States, and a number of persons have been engaged in selling it to masters of vessels and seamen trading between New York and Porteau-Prince. So much of this kind of money has been sent to that country, that the Government have taken measures to put a stop to an-Prince. So much of this kind of money has been sent to that country, that the Government have taken measures to put a stop to the importation if possible. With this object in view, the Haytien Consul, or Commercial Agent in New York, informed the police, and efforts were made to detect the parties engaged in the business, but without success until Saturday, when the above officers succeeded in entrapping one of the implicated parties on board the brig Baltimore, lying at Catharine Ferry. The vessel had cleared for Porte-au-Prince, and was to zail yesterday.

An arrangement had some time previously been made between the mate and the accused (a Frenchman, whose name is supposed to be Hasler,) for the purchase of a large quantity of the spurious paper. Hasler brought the required amount on board in a common soup box, and being taken into the cabin, the whole amount, valued at $16,000 in Hayti, was bought by the mate for $500. The mate gave him a check for the amount on the Merchants' Bank of New York. The officers being secreted on board, observed the transaction, and followed the Frenchman to the ferry-boat, where they took him into custody. It may be proper to observe that the mate acted in concert with the officers in the mater. The bills are printed on thick, straw-colored, rough-edged paper, five inches wide and seven and three-fourth inches long.

By holding the bill to the light, the "Empire d'Hayti," with a crown in the center, and an ornamental border surrounding the whole, in water mark, is distinctly visible. The printed portions of the bill are badly executed, but the water-marks are neat and ornamental. The man arrested refuses to give his name. He was committed to the City Hall cells to await further inquiry.

Adrain Hercy, was in the outskirts of Wil-liamsburgh. On proceeding thither they dis-covered the plates, dies, and other materials with which the bills were manufactured, together with one hundred thousand dollars worth of paper money. The bills were put up in $100 packages, and filled two large chests. A quantity of prepared bill paper was also found. The whole was carted off to the City Hall last night. A number of per-sons are supposed to have been engaged in the manufacture of the spurious bills.

History of Tom Hood's Song of the Shirt. In the Memorials of Thomas Hood, by his on and daughter, occurs the following in eresting account:

In the Christmas number of Punch for this year appeared the famous "Song of the Shirt." It was, of course, inserted anonymously, but it ran through the land like wildfire. Paper after paper quoted it, and it became the talk of the day. There was no little speculation as to its author, although several, I believe Dickens among the number, attributed it at once to its right source. At last my father wrote to one of the daily papers and acknowledged it. He was certainly astonished, and a little amused, at its wonderful popularity, although my mother had said to him when she was folding up the packet ready for the press: "Now mind, Hood, mark my words, this will tell wonderfully! It is one of the best things you ever did!" This turned out a true prophecy. It was translated into French and German, and even, I believe, into Italian. My father used often to laugh, and wonder how they rendered the peculiar burden, "Stirch, stitch, stitch." In the Christmas number of Punch for this and also, "Seam and gueset and band!" "Seam and gusset and band!"

"Stitch, stitch, stitch!"

It was printed on cotton pocket-handkerchiefs for sale, and has met with the usual fate of all popular poems, having been parodied times without number. But what delighted, and yet touched, my father most deeply was, that the poor creatures to whose sorrow and sufferings he had given such eloquent voice, seemed to adopt its words as their own, by singing them about the streets to a rude air of their own adaptation.

Gossip About Royality.—Queen Victoria and Prince Albert, the German papers say, are going on a visit to Germany, and will pass a week or two at the Palace Rheinhartsbrunn, a week or two at the Palace Rheinhartsbrunn, the summer residence of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Goths, a place celebrated for the beauty of its architecture, and the peculiarities of its gardens. Here Prince Albert passed his earlier youth. The Court Journal officially denies the report, that the Princess Alice is to marry the Prince of Hesse-Darmstadt, as announced in the English and copied in the American papers. The Emperor and Empress of France were to leave Paris on the 16th instant, for a tour of twenty-five days through Nice, Savoy, Corsica and Algeria, and on their return would proceed to their favorite watering place, Blarritz, to spend the autumn months. The royal individuals assembled at the Congress of Baden had not all left that place at latest accounts, and the Grand Duke of Baden, the Crown Prince of Saxony, the Prince Regent of Prussia, the King of Bavaria and a score of petty German potentates, are still at that popular place of resort.

PRINCE JEROME'S WILL.—It is said that Prince Jerome Bonaparte, after leaving a fourth of his property to his daughter, the Princess Mathilde, has given the entire remainder to Prince Napoleon. This bequest is a very considerable one, for Jerome, having become economical in his old age, spent only five or six hundred thousand france of an income amounting to 1,500,000f., composing his civil list. Consequently, Prince Napoleon will inherit many millions, beside enjoying the chief of his father's official emoluments. To his son and grandson in Baltimore, it is said that nothing has been left by Jerome's testament. The grandson, desiring to be present in the last moments of his relative, was unable to accomplish the wish, but by an order of the Emperor, a place was reserved for him in the family pew at the Invalides. Will there be, say the quidnuncs, a contest between the American and the French Bonapartes for the succession of the crown of France? PRINCE JEROME'S WILL.-It is said that Another scandal threatens the Imperial family of France, according to the Independence Belge. The Baron de Chassiron, desiring an amicable separation from his wife, the eidest daughter of Prince Murat, has not been able to effect this therefore, the aid of the law is to be called in to interpose a legal barrier between the two partners in life's joys and sorrows, who reciprocally accuse each other of unfaithfulness. At present, the husband appears to be the party most open to reproach.

PECULIAR PRISENTS FOR THE PAINCE OF WALES.—Some Nova Scotian, a dealer in grindstones, has prepared a specimen of his wares for presentation to the Prince of Wales. One side of the stone bears this pregnant legend: "For the Prince of Wales, Our Hopeful King, 1880," On the other side is the business card of the donor. An artificial leg or two, a few glass eyes, and perhaps an invoice of assorted coffin; will be cheerful and appropriate gifts wherewith to welcome His Royal Highness, and the artificers in these goods ought to be on the alert.

The Naples correspondent of the London

Star writes on the 30th ult, as follows: The attitude of the middle classes and of The attitude of the middle classes and of the nobility continues to be one of extreme caution—that, at least, is the polite word for it. The Liberais say that they feel distrust; I believe what they leel it fear. This wavering attitude has served the Government for an encouragement; and it has succeeded in procuring, by means of the police, some display of an artificial enthusiasm—partly even of a sincere one, the latter mainly on the part of the lazzaroni. For among the lazzaroni there is a fraction of honest fellows and stout Liberals, who, not understanding any thing about Italian unity, national feeling, and the like, feel sincerely content to see the yoke of the police taken from their necks. For them, "constitution" means "no shirri;" in which creed, undoubtedly, there is some instinctive trath.

The other half of the lazzaroni, under The other half of the lazzaron, under Mannetta's direction, and that of Campagna, Governa, Mazza, in one word of the Queen Dowager's old band, is reactionary—saufe-dista—and would burn down and pillage Naples, were it not for the foreign squadrons in ples, were it not for the foreign squadrons in the roadstead. It is said, and with very great probability, that this band had already received orders to turn the movement of the day before yesterday into a demonstration against the Constitution.

I must tell you that on the 27th the King, or rather the young Queen, acting for him, had given the Queen Thereas to understand that it had become a necessity, in the interest of the whole dynasty, for her to quit Naples. The Count of Aquila—or, as others pretend, the Count of Syracuse—had been charged with this rather delicate mission. She was at the time with Mgr. Gallo, her confessor. At the mere sight of the messenger she knew his mission, and did not allow him to fluish his well-set address. At the court it was believed she would go to Vienna, but she has preferred to seek safety in the fortress of Gaeta, where she went on the evening of the 28th. Her adherents, however, seem to have been resolved to try their coup de main nevertheless. Some fighting took place with ticks the shirri wade adia. oup de main nevertheless. Some fighting ook place with sticks; the sbirri made a die barge of musketry, shooting into the air follispersing the crowd.

In the midst of this turmoil, the minister o rance arrived in that part of the Toledo is ais equipage. The Commissaires Mobillo I Espagnoil, Campagna and Mannetta, wh were at the head of the reactionary lazzaron were at the head of the reactionary inzarroni, pointed out the embassador to them, and it remains to be seen if they themselves did not take part in what followed. The lazzaroni made a rush upon the carriage, and M. Brenier was beaten with sticks. The well-dressed passers-by and the police interfered immediately, shouting "It is the French minister—stop the villains." But the villans had already taken to their heels, and not a single one was arrested. Troops then made their appearance on the spot, and the state of siege was declared in the evening. During the night it was attempted to arrest the well signalized parties who had been seen on the occasion, but not a single one of them could be found. In fact, all the friends of Queen Theress had disappeared, probably much for their good. Ajossa himself, the president of the police, is on board a French ship.

America of the Prince of Wales.

The London Times of July 9, says at the close of a lengthy editorial:

close of a lengthy editorial:

We may predict, without much arrogauce, that this visit will be a historical event. What can be stronger and more worthy the curiousity of those to come than the reception by a Republican President of a Royal Prince whose ancestor was deposed and resisted during years of war by the nation which now shows hospitality to his descendant? We might make the obvious reflections which occur to every one on this great revulsion of feeling. It is, however, sufficient to say that the demonstration indicates two things—first, that the Americans are convinced that the British State nourishes no insiduous designs against them or their institutions, and that they will not be misunderstood if they give vent to their good feeling with something of vent to their good feeling with something of their usual vehemence; and secondly, that the character and personal demeanor of En-glish royalty at the present day is such as to gusin royatty at the present day is such as to insure the respect even of those who have discontinued it as a political form.

In the United States the Prince will be re-ceived with that cordinity which no people can show better than Americans, and he will can show better than Americans, and he will no doubt respond by a bearing equally cour-teous and honorable. Were the Prince older in years, and were his stay longer, he might bring back many a new idea to be of service to his country and its dependencies. Such an examination of the New World is hardly to be hoped for. But there is one thing which his Royal Highness, and all of us, may learn from his visit, and that is, that neither civil war, nor revolution, nor commercial rivalry, nor political bickerings, nor acrimonious social criticisms, can totally sunder nations which, having a common origin and language, develope themselves by the practice of the same free institutions.

BLONDIN'S FOURTH PERFORMANCE AT NIAMARA.—Wednesday afternoon, says the Niagara Falls (N. Y.) Gazette, M. Blondin gave his fourth public exhibition on his rope over the Niagara. There were more people in town than on any previous occasion. Blondin walked first from the Canada side, going through his usual performances until he came to the center, where he fastened his balancing-pole to the cable and descended a slack rope, the two ends of which are fastened some fifty feet apart to his main cable, the slack hanging some twenty to thirty feet below. Upon this string he ran down as though perfectly at home. He suspended himself from this with straps, hanging two or three feet below. He also stood up, to every appearance a really dangerous act.
But when he whirled himself like a wheel, heels over head, and very fast, people held heels over bead, and very fast, people held their breath for fear and in atter amazement. Some turned their backs upon him, not wishing to look upon such a fearful perform-ance. After returning to his highway he completed the trip to the American side,

Heroic Woman.—Mrs Welsh was the daughter of John Knox, the Scottish Reformer. In May, 1622, her husband, Mr. Welsh, being in London, and detained there by his Sovereign, and being at the time far gone in consumption, Mrs. Welsh obtained access to King James, and petitioned him to negrate her husband, to return to Scotland. access to King James, and petitioned him to permit her husband to return to Scotland, urging the King to give her husband his liberty and his native air. "Give him his native air," the King replied; "give him the devil." "Give that to your hungry courtiers," said she, offended at his profaneness. He told her at last, that if she would persuade her husband to submit to the hishops, he would allow him to return to Scotland. Mrs. Welsh litted up her apron, and holding it toward the King, replied in the true spirit of her fathers, "Please your Majesty, I'd rather receive his head here."

A MAN KILLS HIS WIFE TO REVENUE HIS A Man Kills his Wife to Revenge his Brother.—We gave a brief account, a few days since, of the killing of one 'Squire Kinley, at Nebo, Ky, by two brothers named Hampton. One of the brothers, George, was arrested immediately after the tragedy and subsequently admitted to bail. John, the other brother, made his escape, but was caught twelve miles above Greencastle, Ind., on Tuesday. When George heard of the arrest of his brother, he went directly home and killed his wife, afleging that it was through her instrumentality that his brother John had fallen into the clutches of the law.

of Another Mill.

The New York Tribuse informs us in Inte lume;

The movements of this distinguished gentleman, though regarded with a great degree of interest by large numbers of his personal friends, and the public generally, are in themselves not particularly heroic, being in fact quite as commonplace as those of any other quiet citizen, who is disposed to mind his own business, and who hopes that his neighbors will kindly do the same. He has demoished no one, quarreled with no die, fought no one, licked no one, smacked no one, and punched nebody's head. His peacesble and modest demeanor has rather astonished many, who had set it down as a foregone conclusion that instantly upon his arrival he would take up arms against a sea of enemies, commence a grand crusade against Morrissey and the Morrisseyites, their kith and kin; friends, aiders and abettors, to the last cousin fifteen degrees removed.

On the contrary, Heenan keeps perfectly cool, drinks no rum, and makes no threats against any body. While anxious to renew the Long Point argument with Morrissey, though exceedingly desirons of meeting that individual in the ring again, quietly awaits a challenge. In case Morrissey does not see fit to send such a message, it is probable that there will be no fight, as Heenan does not feel disposed to send a challenge. In proof of the oft-asserted fact that the great proportion of the oft-asserted fact that the great pr disposed to send a challenge. In proof of the oft-asserted fact that the great proportion of fair-dealing Englishmen unite in awarding Heenan the victory in the Faraboro fight we mention that at Tiffany's is now to be seen a beautiful siver vase, presented to Heenan by a number of English gentlemen The inscription on it runs as follows:

"JOHN C. HEENAN."
"CHARPION OF THE WORLD."
On the other side is engraved:

"This cup is presented by a few Englishmen, frequenters of Mr. J. Probasts (Anchor and Hopey, Stepney, in admiration of his menty and gentlemants conduct while in England."

Heenan himself expresses no doubt as to his getting the belt that was presented to him, and which is now in the hands of the maker. An erromous report has been spread maker. An erroneous report has been spread that this belt was never paid for, but the facts that this belt was never paid for, but the facts of the case seem to be these, as stated by Mr. Hancock, the manufacturer of the two belts for Heenan and Sayers:

In reference to the report that the belts had not been paid for, he writes to the editor of the Morning Advertiser, requesting him to immediately and authoritatively contradict a report so prejudicial to Albion. He says that his bill for the two belts was promptly paid on the 21st of June last, and that he hashad no control over them since the 20th of May, the date of their presentation at the Alhambira. According to Mr. Hancock's story, the belts were returned to him simply to be "Hall-marked," and to rereive a last finish, which could not be given to them in the little time allowed for their manufacture. In case of another fight between Heenan and nnish, which could not be given to them in the little time allowed for their manufacture. In case of another fight between Heenan and Morrissey, it will come off at some point far South, where both men will be among strangers, and where the great crowd of roughs will be unable to go on account of the expense. Florida has been named as the most likely spot, but some enthusiastic Cubans have suggested that the combat take place in the amphitheater for bull-fighting, at Havana. This inclosure will hold several thousand people, and could easily be filled, say the Cubans, with an enthusiastic audience, who would pay an ounce ($16) for the best places, and half an onnec ($8) for the other places. It is asserted that the Governor-General would not refuse his consent to this arrangement. In this case, both the conqueror and conquered might retire from the ring with a handsome competence.

Bells Life in London denies the report that Heenan's champion belt was detained by the maker, and says:

"Heenan informed us that he was unable to take his belt with him, it being detained by Mr. Morris of the New York Heidel."

"Heenan informed us that he was unable to take his belt with him, it being detained by Mr. Morris, of the New York Hotel, (who had advanced a portion of the money to pay for it) as a security until that sum was repaid. We hope the necessary amount will be subscribed to enable his friends to release the trophy, and send it after him to the States. Many of our cottempraries have stated that Many of our cotemporaries have stated that the belt is detained by Mr. Hancock, the jew-cler, of Bruton-street, by whom it was manufactured; but, as will be seen above, this is untrue. Mr. Hancock received payment for the belts some weeks back, and has had no control over them since the evening they were delivered to Sayers and Heenan at the Alhambra, although they were returned to him for a few days to receive the finishing touch, which he was unable to give them in the very short period of six days allowed him for their manufacture. Heenan has expressed his infention of returning to this country to witness the mill between Hurst and Tom Paddock, and thinks it very probable he may then be induced to give one or both of them a taste of his quality." dany of our cotemporaries have stated that

A NEGRO INHUMANLY MUNDERED BY TWO OVERSEERS.—The Columbia (Tenn.) Democratic Herald, of Saturday, gives an account of a most barbarous and inhuman act of cruelty, perpetrated on a slave of Mr. D. Helm, about fifteen miles from Columbia, by two overseers on the Central Southern Railroad. The Herald says that the slave had been run off some time, and Mr. Helm sent him back on the passenger train. On the arrival of the train at Dodson's Gap, fifteen miles distant from Columbia, they took and tied him to a beech tree, some one hundred yards distant from the road, and stripping him, they whipped him with leather stripps and beech limbs for three hours, giving him some one thousand or twelve hundred lashes. After whipping very near all the skin off of his back, they put turpentine on him and put whipping very near all the skin on of his back, they put turpentine on him and put him out in the hot sun to work among the rock; being of very stout and healthy consti-tution he survived it about twenty-four hours, when he fell and died almost immediately.

The overseers names are Frederick Wright and Thomas S. McCrary. Mr. Helm offers $150 reward for the apprehension of Wright, and fifty dollars for McCrary, so that he can DECEPTION OF PORTUGUESE DINING,-A re-

Decertion of Portuguese Dining.—A recent traveler says:

Among other items of key-hole knowledge, we noticed that every day, about dinner time, our neighbors had a table set out in their parlor, with clean damask cloth and napking, pieces of bread, silver forks, spoons, castors, &c., handsome wine-glasses and goblets, and all the paraphernalia of a very genteel dinner equipage. The table stood thus during an hour or more, so that it visitors came in, they might suppose that the family were preparing to sit down in style comme it faul. But to this table they never did sit down; for when the time of exhibition had elapsed, all the fine things were taken off and carefully put away for a similar show the next day, and the next Meanwhile (as we found by reconnoitering through the kitchen found by reconnoitering through the kitchen key-hole) the Portuguese family all assembled in the place where their food was cooked, seated themselves on the floor round a large earthen pan filled with some sort of stew and each dipped in a pewter spoon and fed out of that same pan.

Fight at a Banneous—One Man Killed.
On Saturday, at Baton Rouge, Ky., there appears to have been a pretty general "free fight." There had been a burbecue there that day. As a portion of the crowd were going home a difficulty occurred between two of them, which resulted as stated above, in a general hight, in which one man, George Divine, was killed by a stab in the left side, and several others were severely hurt. Eleven of those engaged in the fight have been apprehended, and are now being tried before the Examining Court.

Political News. DETROIT, MICH., July 24.—A meeting of the friends of Breckinridge and Lane, from the different parts of the State, was held in this city to-day. A State Committee was appointed, who were empowered to call a State Convention, to nominate an electoral ticket and perfect an organization.

The meeting was not large, but a determ-

The meeting was not large, but a determined spirit was manifested. After adjournment, the gentlemen composing the meeting called upon General Cass, at his residence.

The friends of Bell and Everett also held a meeting last evening, to devise measures looking to State organization. Beside the organization of a Bell and Everett Club, nothing decisive was effected.

Tausyon, N. J., July 25.—Both Conventions are now in resident that under call of of the State Convention. All the counties are represented.

A resolution was adopted, at a preliminary meeting, this morning, that they should nominate an Electoral regular ticket, pledged to support the regular nominations of the Democratic party, Douglas and Johnson.

Speeches were made by Governor Price, General Rungon, Mr. Van Natter and Gen. Parker, all strongly for no fusion, and pledging fidelity to non-intervention. The Committee on Resolutions now in session will report the Cincinnati Platform and pledge to Douglas.

Gen. Cook, of Hudson, and Gen. Lock of Dougnas.

Gen. Cook, of Hudson, and Gen. Joel, of Monmouth, were nominated by acclamation as Senatorial Electors, with cheers. The Convention here took a recess.
At the Breckinridge and Lane Convention at the State-house, Samuel Fowler, of Sussex, was chosen temporary Chairman amid loud neering.

Every county in the State is represented.

Committee on Permanent Organization, onsisting of one delegate from each county n the State, was adopted.

The same Committee was also directed to eport rules for the guidance of the canvass well as a series of resolutions. The Chairman was given power to ap-oint a committee of five to confer with any ther committee on the subject of a union

Sr. Jonns, N. F., July 25.—Yesterday addresses were presented to the Prince, to which he replied as follows: "I sincerely thank you for the addresses presented to me, and for the hearty welcome received from all on my landing here, the shores of this, the earliest colonial possession of the British Crown. I trust you will not think me regardless of your zealous loyalty if I acknowledge these addresses collectively. It will afford me the greatest satisfaction to report to the Queen the devotion to her crown and person, unnistalkably evinced by the reception of her son, eloquently expressed in the addresses from various bodies in this town and Harbor Grace, I am charged by the Queen to convey to you The Prince of Wales. various bodies in this town and Harbor Grace, I am charged by the Queen to convey to you the assurance of the deep concern she has ever felt in this interesting portion of her domin-ions. I shall carry back a lively recollection of this day's proceedings, and your kindness to myself personally, but above all, of these hearty demonstrations of partiolism, which prove your deep-rooted attachments to the great and free country of which we all giory to be called her sons."

great and free country of which we all glory to be called her soms."

The Prince pleases the populace immensely by his handsome countenance and mild, gentlemanly bearing. He drives out to-day. There will be a dinner party at the Government House this evening, and a ball at ten o'clock to-night. The fire-works last night were a poor affair.

To-day is a beautiful clear day for the regatta.

BUFFALO, July 24.—The grand concert, this evening, by all the musical societies at-tending the Sangerfest of the North Amerian Sangerbund, was a perfect success. Over 600 performers participated, including an or-chestra of 100 instruments, all under the direction of Col. Adam, of the Buffalo Lieder-tatel.

The immense passenger depot of the New York Central Railroad was densely packed, and thousands were unable to effect an entrance. It is estimated that 8,000 people were dmitted on tickets.

During the performance, the temporary screen on the eastern end of the building was torn down, thus admitting to the benefit of the concert some three thousand or four thousand more. All passed off without casualty From New York.

RETURN OF AN ENGLISH HUNTING PARTY.—
A party of titled English hunters have reached St. Paul, Minuffota, after a successful hunt at Devil's Lake and on the Red River. Among their troplies are buffalo hides and heads, elk, four magnificent American eagles, &c. They assert that the water of Devil's Lake is almost as salt as that of the Ocean, a fact not generally known.
